COLPRIT'S CHRYSANTHEMUMS

ALL CHRYSANTHEMUMS, 50c EACH; $5.00 PER DOZ., EXCEPT AS NOTED

COLPRIT'S ARCTICUM HYBRIDS

All Chrysanthemums, 50c each;
$5.00 per doz., except as noted.

COCHECO

A new and unique type, compact in habit. Florets similar to those of the Cushion Mums but the plant is upright, with none of the floppiness seen in these varieties. The unfolding buds are purplish in color, opening to a most brilliant orchid-pink; they remain in good condition for several weeks, being remarkably frost resistant. In profusion of bloom it surpasses any Chrysanthemum we have seen. Blooms in September.

KING PHILIP

The large, scarlet-red, single blooms of this brand-new variety have made it the most brilliant spot in our display ground. It is a startling color, which never fails to attract attention. The plant is compact in habit and blooms in late September. 75c each.

OLD DOVER

This hybrid retains many of the qualities of its Arcticum parent. The large, semi-double blooms are a pleasing blend of yellow and bronze. The plant is dwarf, about 10 inches, with healthy dark green foliage, and is extremely hardy. It is a continuous bloomer from early summer to hard freezing weather.

PUNCHINELLO

Award of Merit, Massachusetts Horticultural Society, 1947. Something entirely new in Chrysanthemums. The plant, which is well clothed with dark green foliage, is only 8 inches tall but may attain a spread of as much as 18 inches. The small, densely double pompons are a beautiful pink with salmon shadings at the center. Blooms in early September. 75c each.

TOCSIN

We offer this for the first time. Fiery red with carmine undertones, this variety brings a lot of color to the late fall garden. A profusion of medium-sized, double blooms smother the cushion-type plant in October. 75c each.

WINNIPESAUKEE

Fully double pompons in great profusion in late September. Coral-red at first but gradually changing to deep glowing salmon, these blooms retain their beauty for a long season. Plants make dense mounds about 18 inches across and 2 feet high.

COLPRIT'S KOREAN HYBRIDS

These Korean Hybrids also originated at Colprit's Nursery. They are taller than the Arcticum Hybrids and therefore are very desirable for cutting or for growing at the back of the border. These have also been selected for hardiness and should be reliable wherever Chrysanthemums can be grown.

ARBUTUS

Large aster-type Mum with the delicate pink of the trailing arbutus or mayflower. From early September on.

GOOD SPORT

Clusters of large, light yellow blooms on tall, straight stems. Semi-double to double. Late September and October.

KLONDIKE GOLD

Very double, deep golden yellow; exceedingly frost resistant. Good for cutting when other varieties have been ruined by freezing weather. October and November.

TREASURE TROVE

Small, clear yellow flowers on stiff stems. A real treasure for cutting. Late September.

Single Hardy Mums

Among our Arcticum Hybrids we have many single and semi-double variations that have great merit. Some of them will eventually be introduced as named varieties. At present we offer them as a collection of unnamed singles at $2.00 for six.

University of New Hampshire Mums

EXETER. Clusters of large, double, bronzy yellow flowers. Plant very vigorous and spreading. September and October.

FRANCONIA. Bronze pompon with great substance. An improved Early Bronze. Cuts well and lasts for a long season. September.

LACONIA. Very early, aster-type yellow with light bronze shadings. Should be pinched once or twice for best results. August and September.

SUNAPEE. Clear golden yellow, fully double blooms. A tall grower producing a wealth of cutting material. Our surplus blooms have found a ready market with florists and commission merchants. Mid-September.

Other Hardy Chrysanthemums

All Chrysanthemums, 50c each;
$5.00 per doz., except as noted.

AVALANCHE. Large, well-formed flowers. A fine white for late September.

BUTTERCUP. A fine yellow Mum. Early September.

COURAGEOUS. Large, double, dark ruby-red. The best dark red.

DULUTH. Large, double blooms of creamy yellow from late August on.

EUGENE A. WANDER. Very large, light yellow blooms in late August and September.

POLAR ICE. Clear blue-white without shadings. Large and of good form. Blooms in September.

WELCOME. A rich purple color, this is a great favorite. It combines well with clear yellows. September.

Annual Chrysanthemum Display

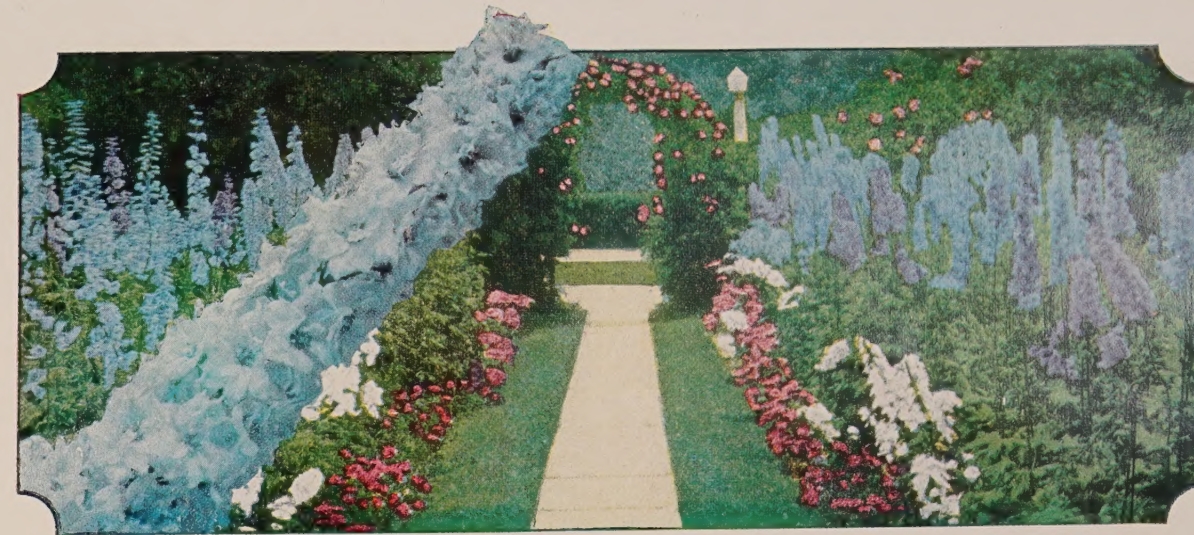

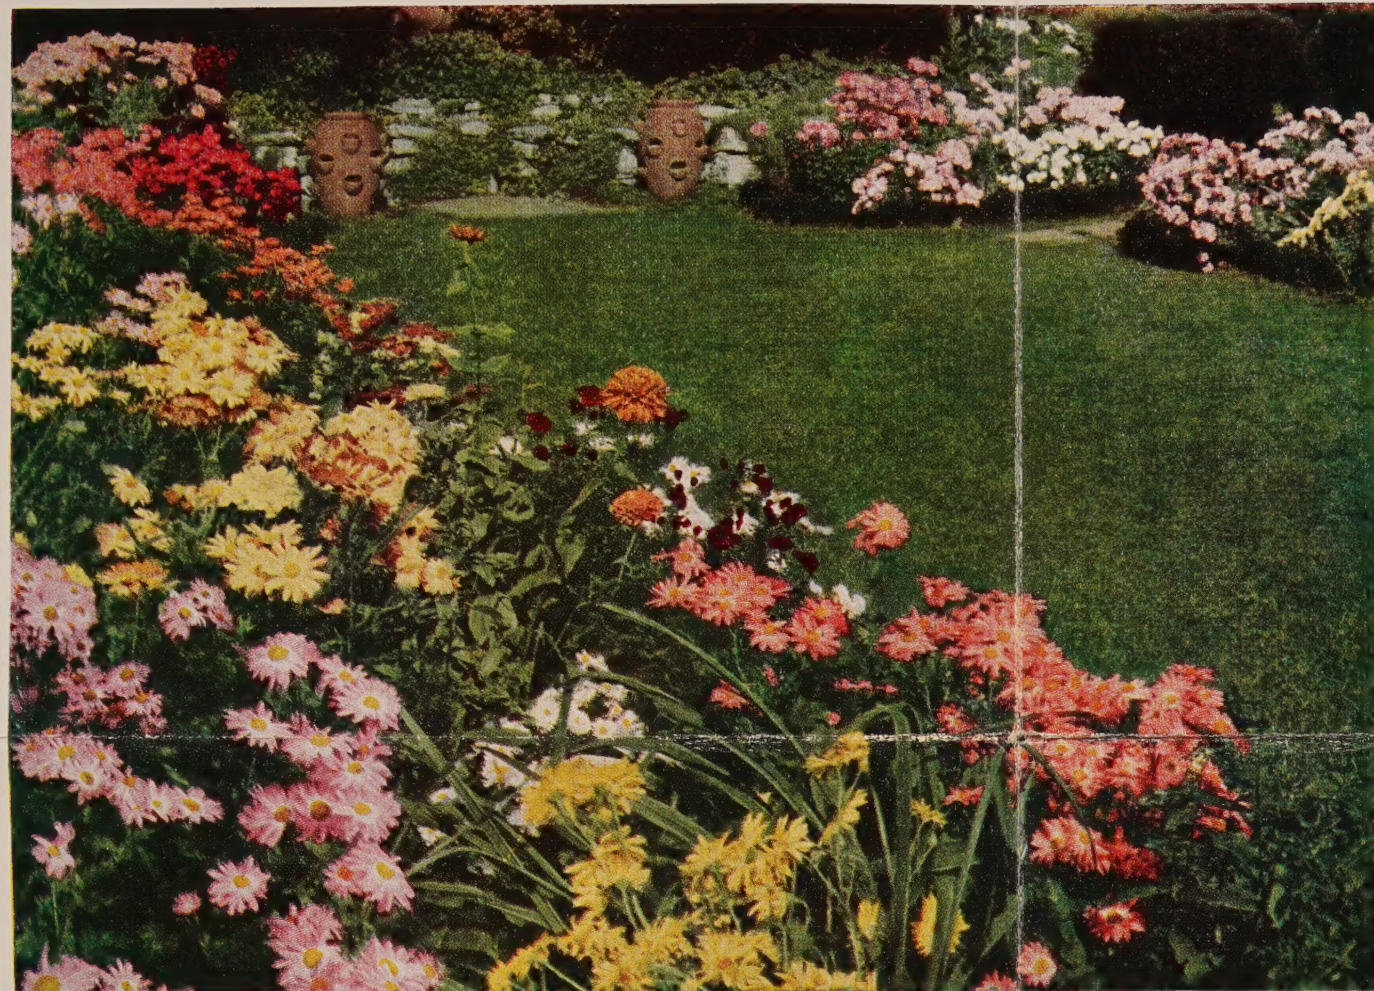

You are invited to visit our very colorful Chrysanthemum display during September and October at the Sales Ground on Route 108, midway between Dover and Durham. Here the various named varieties are grown in quantity and also many new kinds not yet introduced. You may select and order the colors you prefer, or you may purchase plants in bloom.

We also have extensive plantings of other perennials and rock plants, including many new and rare varieties that make an interesting display throughout the season. You are always welcome at Colprit's Nursery. Please note that no sales are made on Sunday.

COLPRIT'S Mums . . .

The hybridizing and growing of new Hardy Chrysanthemums has been a specialty with us for years. We were among the first to cross the various colorful Mums on the Arctic Daisy, to increase the hardiness of garden Chrysanthemums. Because of our northern situation, earliness and frost resistance of bloom are necessarily the characteristics that we give first place in our breeding program. Selection is also made for those varieties that are naturally compact and bushy and hence do not require pinching to produce shapely plants in the garden.
